A coming-of-age story about a young African teen coming to terms with heartbreak and finding her own strength.

Seventeen-year-old Ama is a bright, ambitious, and beautiful young woman. She has a great family, a close-knit group of friends, and a bright future ahead of her. But when her first love, Kwame, breaks her heart, Ama's world falls apart.

Ama is devastated by the breakup. She can't eat, she can't sleep, and she can't concentrate on her schoolwork. She feels like her whole world has been turned upside down.

But Ama is a strong and resilient young woman. She's determined to pick herself up and move on from this heartbreak.

With the help of her friends and family, Ama begins to heal her broken heart. She learns to accept her emotions, forgive Kwame, and move on with her life.

Along the way, Ama discovers her own strength and resilience. She learns that she is capable of overcoming anything that life throws her way.

African Teen Heart Break: It's Not That Bad is a powerful and inspiring story about heartbreak, love, loss, and finding your own strength.
