The Early Days: The 356 Carrera RS

The Porsche 356 Carrera RS was the first Porsche car to be specifically designed for rallying. It was based on the 356B, but with a number of modifications to make it more suited to the rigors of rally racing. These modifications included a more powerful engine, a stiffer suspension, and a lighter body.

The 356 Carrera RS was a huge success in rallying, winning numerous events throughout the world. It was driven by some of the greatest rally drivers of all time, including Walter Röhrl and Björn Waldegård.

The Golden Age: The 911 Carrera RS

The Porsche 911 Carrera RS was introduced in 1973 and quickly became one of the most successful rally cars of all time. It was based on the 911S, but with a number of modifications to make it lighter and more powerful. These modifications included a fiberglass body, a more powerful engine, and a stiffer suspension.

The 911 Carrera RS was a dominant force in rallying, winning numerous events throughout the world. It was driven by some of the greatest rally drivers of all time, including Walter Röhrl, Björn Waldegård, and Vic Elford.

The Modern Era: The 959

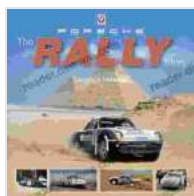

The Porsche 959 was introduced in 1986 and was the most technologically advanced rally car of its time. It was based on the 911, but with a number of modifications to make it more suited to the rigors of rally racing. These modifications included a twin-turbocharged engine, a four-wheel drive system, and a lightweight body.

The 959 was a huge success in rallying, winning numerous events throughout the world. It was driven by some of the greatest rally drivers of all time, including Walter Röhrl, Björn Waldegård, and Ari Vatanen.
